_____ Sadhana is committed to the spirit of ekatva or the oneness of all beings. Ekatva is all-inclusive and unrestricted by barriers of race, ethnicity, caste, class, gender, orientation, age, religion, nationality, citizenship, or physical and mental abilities. I agree to affirm the dignity and equal presence of the divine in all human beings.

_____ Sadhana is committed to ahimsa or the practice of non-violence and compassion (daya). I agree to center and promote non-violence and compassion.

_____ Sadhana is committed to seva or service. I agree to foster spiritual community through satsangh or group worship and dedicate myself to serving my neighbors as an expression of my devotion to the divine.

_____ Sadhana is committed to social justice and positive peace-making as both the means and the end of our mission. I agree to keep Sadhana inclusive, egalitarian, and accountable through open and respectful conversation and transparent leadership.

_____ Sadhana is committed to working toward dismantling structural oppression. I agree to stand in solidarity and alliance with those who are most marginalized by society and strive to empower them through my work with Sadhana.

_____ Sadhana is committed to dialogue and relationship building. I agree to actively reach out to community partners and stakeholders to ensure that Sadhana's mission positively impacts our communities.

_____ Sadhana is committed to honoring the sanctity of Prithvi Ma or Mother Earth and ensuring her sustainability. I agree to perform my religious and daily activities by remaining environmentally conscious of the impact of my actions on the planet and all of its living inhabitants, human and non-human.

_____ Sadhana is committed to Hinduism as a family of diverse traditions. I agree to learn from and critically engage their rich legacies in a spirit of openness, dialogue, respect, and creativity.
